Please provide details of the document (including the date) this guidance comes from:

'The City of Edinburgh Council CAN adopt parking spaces if ALL of the following apply:

The parking spaces:

Are within the road boundary shown on approved road construction consent plans

Were constructed to adoptable standards

Were intended for public use, not private or residents-only use

Were offered for adoption by the developer/owner

Were formally accepted by the Council as part of the adoption process.

The City of Edinburgh Council CANNOT adopt parking spaces if:

They are on private land

They were not included in the road adoption plans

They are allocated, deeded or factored spaces

They serve a private development rather than the public road

They were never formally offered or accepted for adoption.

In these cases the Council has no automatic right to regulate or enforce parking regulations'.

The SCOTS National Roads Development Guide is used for designing new developments. Part 2.3.2 on page 54 explains the adoption of parking.
